Fear War In Mid-East

Believe Israel Mobilization Means Nation Ready to Strike at Egypt

WASHINGTON (AP) — High American officials were gravely concerned today over the possibility of war in the Middle East.

Some of them fear Israel's mobilization could mean only one thing—that she has decided now is the opportune time to go to war against the Arabs. If so, they believe Israel's first blow will be at Syria.

These experts think Israel may have decided:

1. That the United States would take no action in a Middle Eastern war so close to the presidential election.

2. That Russia would be unable to come to the aid of Arab states because the Soviets are too preoccupied with their own troubles throughout Eastern Europe.

These experts speculated further that Egypt could expect no help from Britain or France because of the bitter controversy over the Suez Canal.

Messages By Eisenhower

The American concern about the possibility of Mideast warfare was underscored by a special White House statement Sunday revealing that President Eisenhower sent an "urgent message" to Israeli Premier David Ben-Gurion.

The letter was the President's

Israeli Cabinet Meets as Tension Mounts

JERUSALEM (AP) — Families of American officials will be evacuated from Israel, officials announced today.

At the same time, the Israeli Cabinet went into emergency session to consider President Eisenhower's second appeal in two days on Mideast peace.

There have been no serious clashes along the Arab-Israel borders in weeks. But tension here mounted in the face of Israel's partial mobilization order Sunday.

President Eisenhower suddenly dispatched two notes to the Israeli government urging Premier David Ben-Gurion to do nothing "which would endanger Mideast peace."

Today officials of the U.S. State Department's International Cooperation Agency (Point Four) announced that families of their personnel would be evacuated.

In Cairo, the American embassy "urgently advised" all Americans who had no compelling reason to remain to leave Egypt.

Israel's decision to mobilize its armed forces partially sent an electric feeling of tension throughout this area, and already some Israeli troops were taking up positions at the front.

An Israeli army spokesman reported two Egyptian "murder squads" were captured near the Gaza Strip early today and that a third escaped after a clash with Israeli patrols.

An army spokesman said it was assumed the Egyptians had suffered some casualties. He said usually there are four or five men in the Egyptian commando squads.

Two Israeli newspapers, the leftist Lamerhav and the right wing Haboker, expressed resentment at Mr. Eisenhower's message to Ben-Gurion. They said they were surprised he had not chosen to censure Iraq for moving troops toward Jordan while warning Israel against taking necessary countermeasures.

A Cairo dispatch said Egypt had been at an all out defense standing since the Anglo-French buildup at the height of the Suez crisis and noted that Egyptian, Syrian, Jordanian and Saudi Arabian forces had been welded together.

The Cairo dispatch quoted Arab sources as saying they believed the Arab states had no intention of precipitating a war and that they believed Israel was not capable of starting fullscale war now. But they said the Israeli move had created new tension and that Arabs must be on the alert.

Rifle Slug Lodges In Brain of Orient Man, 27

WEST FRANKFORT, Ill. (UPI) — A 27-year-old Orient, Ill., man has a 22-caliber short rifle slug lodged in the left frontal lobe of his brain, but his condition was described today as good.

Authorities said Bill Gass and his brother-in-law, Ronnie Broad, of Plumfield, were going hickory nut hunting Sunday. Broad decided to take firearms along and the rifle accidentally discharged as he was picking it up.

The slug entered Gass' forehead above the left eye at the hairline and penetrated about two inches. A surgeon at Union Hospital here said "it was one of those one-in-a-million cases that the man is alive."

Has No Doubts

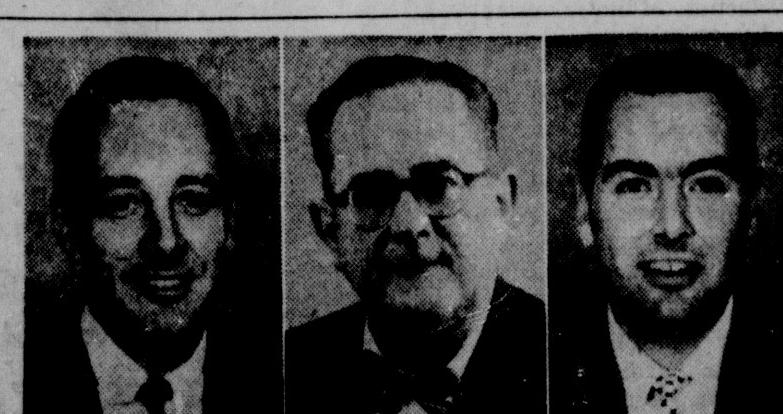

Dr. Paul Dudley White, the Boston specialist who treated the President after his heart attack, said that in view of the results of the weekend tests he had no doubts about Mr. Eisenhower's ability to stand up under the rigors of the political campaign.

White said that the results of his part of the examinations, the cardiovascular portion of the tests, provided "excellent news" on the President's condition, particularly "after a period in which the President was very busy."

Mr. Eisenhower himself was feeling demonstrably well as he left the hospital. He walked down the steps of Walter Reed Sunday afternoon with Maj. Gen. Leonard D. Heaton, commanding officer of the army medical center, and Maj. Gen. Howard McC. Snyder, the White House physician.

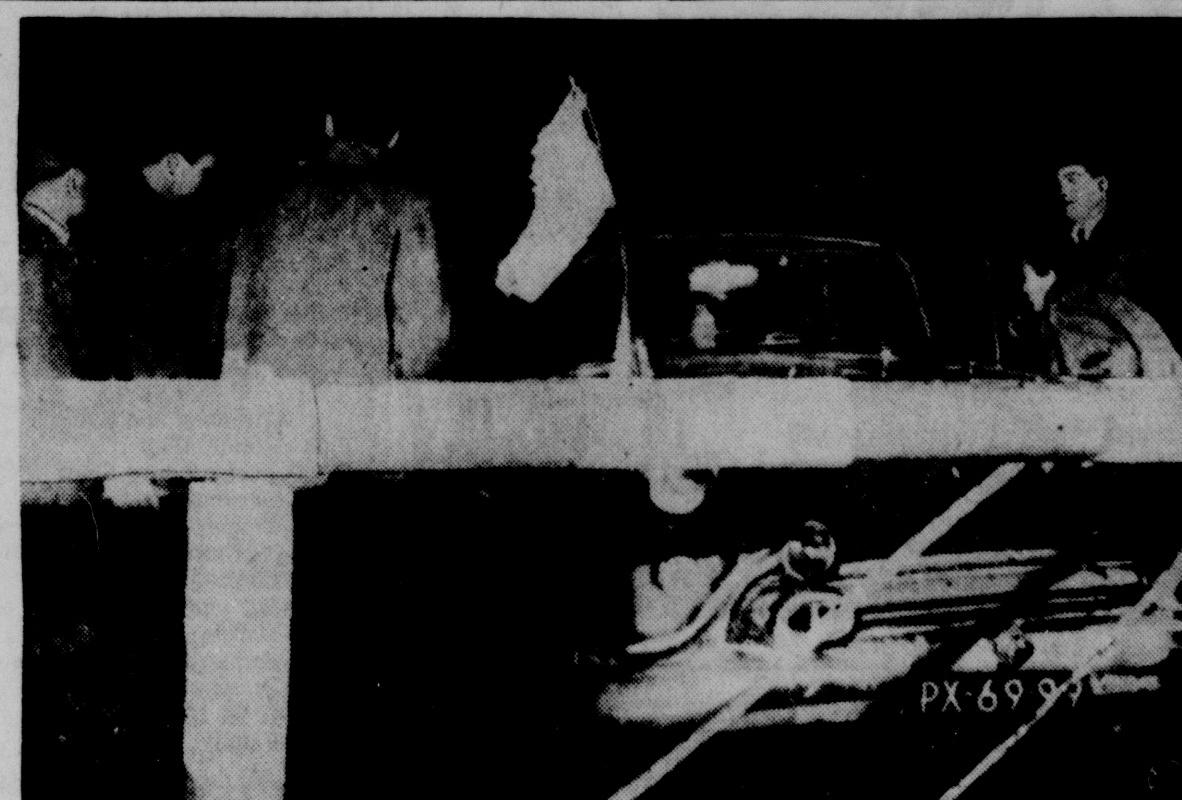

Asked how he felt, the President said, "fine, fine."

"At least, I feel physically fine," he added. "Now, if they could just get those other worries off my head."

Climbing Back From Nazism

Editorial — BY BRUCE BLOSSAT
At the close of World War II when the horrors of the Nazi concentration camps were discovered, the overwhelming bulk of the German population dismissed the disclosures as "enemy propaganda." They would not believe that such crimes had been committed.

To the victorious Allies this reaction was regarded as one more proof of the callousness of the German nation, of its indifference to brutality.

Again and again it was said that ordinary Germans forgave Adolf Hitler everything but his failure to win the war.

Yet many insisted that they weren't really lost to the family of nations, that the Germans would respond to patient efforts to re-educate them away from nazism and take their place once more in decent international society.

Slowly, efforts of that kind bore fruit, despite occasional disturbing signs that the spirit of nazism was not dead. How fully it may have borne fruit has recently been demonstrated by a remarkable series of events in Germany.

Almost simultaneously in a number of cities, including Berlin, Hamburg, Karlsruhe, Dresden (East Germany), and Dusseldorf—an American play called "The Diary of Anne Frank" has opened and is showing to full houses.

The play is based on a genuine diary written during the war by a young Jewish girl in Holland. With her family and a few others, she hid out from the Nazis for two years in a garret over an Amsterdam store.

Her story is a remarkable record of quiet courage under extreme hazard, of attempts to continue some semblance of normal life when there could be no movement or talk in daytime, when the constant fear existed of a sharp knock at the well-hidden door.

In the end, of course, the Nazis came. Young Anne later dies in a concentration camp.

To this grim unfolding of the meaning of Nazi persecution to one small cluster of Dutch Jews, today's Germans have responded with something akin to shock.

Letters streaming in to the producer's offices say such things as: "One can only creep home out of shame and guilt." Or: "It will undoubtedly shake anyone who comes to see it."

Observers who have witnessed the behavior of German audiences again and again at "Diary" report that they will not allow applause, that the common response is to rise and leave the theater silently, with bowed heads. The sense of shame and embarrassment seems all pervading.

So far as is known, no important element of German society is attacking the play as "anti-German propaganda." No one is demanding it be closed. On the contrary, other editions in other cities are soon to begin.

This one extraordinary sequence of events, still continuing, does not prove the full and complete reformation of the German people. But it strongly suggests that it is possible. The evidence of progress is unmistakable. And all the free world should take note.

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Phil

Rizzuto, former Yankee shortstop, came to town the other day with his wife.

When word got to the White House, James Hagerty, Ike's press secretary, arranged to have the famous ball player shown thru the executive mansion.

While Rizzuto and Hagerty were chatting after the tour, President Eisenhower popped in on his way back from lunch. Despite a heavy schedule, Ike sat down for 10 minutes and talked about the World Series, Mickey Mantle and golf, among other things.

When Ike started to leave, he stopped suddenly, turned around and asked the Rizzutos if they were heading back toward his office. They said they were and the President exclaimed:

"Well, come on along and keep me company."

"I can't get over it," reported Phil in a daze afterwards.

THIS SO-CALLED suave and sophisticated burg nearly flopped on its face when His Imperial Highness, Louis Ferdinand, checked in for a week.

You would have thought the Queen of England had landed on our shores in her bare feet. Gwen Cafriz pulled a coup when the Prince of Prussia attended her Sunday filing honoring the Supreme Court. This made up somewhat for the fact that no justices showed.

From there on the poor man waded through a raft of parties, luncheons and buffets given by an assortment of eager hostesses and embassies.

Actually the prince, a grandson to the Kaiser, can drink his beer with the best of us commoners.

He came to the U. S. in the 30's and worked on the production line of the Ford Motor Company. During the war he was a member of the German resistance.

GAME—that's what you have to call the real pros in Washington's social whoo-de-doo. They're always in the party line-up.

For example, the following have been seen in action recently although they're on the injured list.

John Simmons, chief of protocol. Fresh from an operation on his toe, Uncle Sam's official greeter hobbies to parties sporting a slipper on his bum foot. They have tagged him "The Toe."

Mrs. Robert Guggenheim, dark horse "hostess with the mostess."

Wearing a cast on her broken arm, she risked a champagne and rum-ba party thrown by the Brazilian ambassador.

A PRETTY receptionist in the office of Secretary of Commerce Sinclair Weeks told her boss the other day she would be going on maternity leave again in January.

It was just last January that Mrs. Lorraine B. Tura had her first child and Weeks gave her quite a kidding.

A little while later he found the following note on his desk: "Many men believe in large families."

And to this I would agree. If only there was some way they could bear this family tree."

SIR ROGER MAKINS, the just-departed British ambassador, managed to visit every one of the 48 states during his assignment in this country. He had some amazing experiences while here, and he handled some very complicated

Lightning Strikes Thrice

In the Same Place

MENASHA, Wis. (UPI)—Mrs. Ann Evenstad would like to straighten out the author of the saying, "Lightning never strikes twice in the same place."

Her home recently was struck for the third time in three years. Lightning hit about 5 a. m., and Mrs. Evenstad, used to the flash and loud bang, got up calmly and surveyed the damage—a burned-out TV set and radio, a gable ripped off the roof and a blackened pipe in the bathroom.

A board from her roof was nailed to a neighbor's house by the lightning bolt.

Lightning struck her home last year while she was watching TV. Her son Bob pulled out the set's plug to save the set from damage, but a lamp, heater, stove and telephone were burned out. Similar damage was done when her home was hit the previous year for the first time.

Move Toward Freedom in Poland May Hasten Fall of Soviet's Khrushchev

This analysis is written by the special diplomatic correspondent of NEA Service, Leon Dennen. Dennen lived in Poland for four years prior to World War II, speaks Polish fluently and has maintained contact with Polish sources through the years. He is widely known as an authoritative writer on the Russian question as a whole.

By LEON DENNEN
NEA Special Correspondent
UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. — (NEA)—Wladyslaw Gomulka's dramatic return to power in Poland is seen here as likely to hasten the fall of Nikita S. Khrushchev as Soviet boss—just as the East German revolt in June, 1953, resulted in the purge of Russia's police chief SUSLOV: Stalin's iron-fisted policies instead of . . .

the top ranks of Polish communism.

Pierre Commin, French Socialist leader who recently visited Moscow, told this correspondent recently, "A whole generation of Stalinists, including Molotov, Suslov and Lazar Kaganovich, will have to die or be purged before the Khrushchev-Bulgarian crowd will gain full supremacy in the Russian Communist Party."

The French leader added: "As things are shaping up in the Communist world today it is Khrushchev and his friends who might find themselves on the losing side."

That Poland was among the first Soviet satellites to challenge Moscow's ruthless colonialism is of course no accident. Like the Nazis before them, the Russians have found the Poles tough to rule.

More than a decade of Soviet domination and economic exploitation has not dampened the Poles' spirit of independence and their hatred for the "Moskals"—as the Russians are derisively known in Poland. Even the Red efforts to wrest the Catholic Poles from their Church failed so badly that Poland has the only Communist-run Army with chaplains.

However, Poland is not the only satellite struggling for liberation from Soviet colonialism. The situation is equally critical for Moscow in Hungary, Czechoslovakia and especially in East Germany where the Communist puppet regime is likely to fall like a rotten apple—thus paving the way for German unity.

Such a possibility has long been foreseen by West German leaders like Erich Ollenhauer, Social Democratic chief, and Foreign Minister Heinrich von Brentano. In the West Germans' view, Stalin's death and Khrushchev's efforts to downgrade him posthumously have unleashed forces of freedom in the Red world which the local Communist chieftains cannot control.

Will Gomulka's victory over the die-hard Stalinists appease the Poles?

Like Yugoslavia's Marshal Tito, Gomulka believes in his country's independence from Russia. But like the Yugoslav he is also a tough professional Communist. Exiled Polish democrats in this country describe the taciturn and hard-faced Red as a narrow-minded

KHRUSHCHEV: The fall may come faster.

Lavrenti Beria.

Western observers of the unfolding political crisis in the Red world foresee little or no change in the condition of the Polish people clamoring for "bread and freedom" as a result of Gomulka's victory.

However, they believe, that the elevation of the 51-year-old ex-blacksmith to the top position in the Polish Communist Party spells new trouble for Khrushchev and Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin.

In the past two months persistent reports have reached the West of a renewed struggle in the Kremlin between the Khrushchev-Bulgarian group and the late Stalin's die-hard adherents headed by former Foreign Minister Vyacheslav Molotov and propaganda chief Mikhail Suslov. Events in Poland are likely to bring the simmering conflict to a head.

The Stalinists blame Khrushchev's policy of friendship with Marshal Tito for the spread of restlessness and "independence" movements behind the Iron Curtain. They advocate instead a return to Stalin's iron-fisted policies in Russia and in the satellite countries.

This seems to be increasingly the view of Marshal Gregory Zhukov and other high-ranking Soviet officers who, together with the Communist Party machine, were until recently the backbone of Khrushchev's support.

Red Army discontent with his policies of "liberalization" is likely to increase due to the expulsion of Russia's Stalin-appointed Marshal Konstantin Rokossovsky from

THE LONG NIGHT

By MARTIN CAIDIN

XXXIII

Dawn long had come, but the daylight was a diffused and sickly illumination, choked with drifting smoke and dust. John himself was barely recognizable from the other men. The thick dust and smoke lay heavily on his clothes and skin, his hair was tousled and unkempt. He was filthy. Like the rest. He was—to the policeman—no longer an individual, but another body able to move, to lift a shovel. They could hardly have cared less about John's futile removal from the scene.

For several blocks he retraced his steps, then, skirting by another two blocks the road gang, worked his way toward City Center Hospital. He had another half mile to travel, for the labor battalion by now had cleared that much road. Too weary to attempt subterfuge, John relied again on a false story to gain entrance to the hospital. He walked directly to a man with a civil defense helmet and armband guarding a side entrance.

"Can you tell me how to get to the main office?" he asked. Before the guard could inquire as to his reasons, John continued with his fabrication. "I've just come from one of the aid stations. Dr. Grinham, he told me to speak to somebody in the office about taking back some surgical tools."

John's haggard appearance effectively supported his lie. "Sure," the guard replied. He opened the door, stepped inside with John, and pointed down the hall. "See that first corridor? Make a right over there. Four offices down."

"Thanks," John replied, stepping quickly past the guard. He was in. Now, to find out what he could about Sue; if necessary, he'd comb the entire hospital as he did at Roosevelt. But one way or the other, he swore, he'd find her.

Inside the office, John looked for the desks where he would find the list of patients treated at the hospital. Here, at least, he knew there would be such a list. The problem was to get someone to allow him to study it for Sue's name.

He looked around the room. Wait a moment . . . over there, in the corner. Wasn't that yes!

"Alice!" John called. "Alice!" He shouldered his way rudely past the people in the room as the girl whose name he called turned around. John stopped as she looked up in surprise. He grasped her arm. "It's me, Johnny."

Alice was a friend of Sue's. He had known her for years. If Sue was here, Alice would know about it and where to find her.

"John!" she gasped as recognition came. "Why, you're all cut up and bruised. What . . ."

"No, never mind me, Alice, I'm all right. Listen," he told her fervently, "you've got to help me. I'm trying to find Sue. I'm pretty sure they evacuated her to this hospital from one of the aid stations. I've been looking for hours; can you help me?"

"Of course! I even saw Sue last night when . . ."

"You saw her! H-how is she; tell me!"

"She was hurt pretty badly when they brought her in here . . ."

"Now; how is she now?"

"Well, she was conscious when I saw her last. That was just before they evacuated her with several hundred other patients."

"Where did they send her, is she going to be all right? How bad is it?" he asked frantically.

"Take it easy, Johnny," she told him. "Come out here. In the hallway, where we can talk."

Away from the milling crowd in the office, she began. "They brought Sue in here a little after midnight; she came in with a group from one of the forward aid stations. I found out about her being here when I was making the rounds of the hospital, collecting the list of patients' names. We collate them in the office."

"Anyway, I noticed her name on one of the lists. She was in the second floor ward. I ran upstairs as quickly as I could. When I found her she was still unconscious."

She placed her hand on his arm.

Dulles, Wilson Deny Russian Claims U.S. Sparked Revolt

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Two cabinet members Sunday denied Russian claims that the United States sparked the Hungarian revolution.

"Tommyrot," Secretary of State John Foster Dulles said upon arrival here by plane from Dallas, Tex.

Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson added that the United States had "no agents . . . to my knowledge" in Hungary that promoted the revolt in the Soviet satellite.

The U. S. government today was preparing to move "very fast" with economic aid to Hungary and any other rebellious Soviet satellite that asks for help.

Miss Barbara May Wins Fire Hazard Contest At the High School

Miss Barbara May, HTHS senior, is the winner of the "Harry Hazard" fire prevention contest, sponsored by Robertson and Ghent, local insurance agency.

She won $25.00 as a result of the "Harry Hazard" slips passed out in physical education classes. It takes a GIANT to build a business...

a $575,000,000 business!

"Newspaper advertising has built our business."

So spoke H. V. McNamara, president of the National Tea Company, America's fifth largest food chain. In a recent address to the members of the Illinois Daily Newspaper Markets, Mr. McNamara made it clear that, "newspaper advertising has been the greatest contributing factor in our sales increase ... from $99,000,000 in 1944 to $575,000,000 in 1955."

Newspapers Get Results

Newspaper advertising, both national and local, brings results, the kind of results you can measure on the cash register, or in stock movement, actual sales results, not next week, not next year, but as soon as the newspaper hits the streets. That's real ACTION ADVERTISING. That's the kind of impact that gets results—and that's the kind of advertising in which we like to invest our money."

Two-Thirds For "Action" Advertising

Since 1944 the National Tea Company has spent over $30,000,000 for advertising and sales promotion...and at least 66% per cent of these advertising dollars has been invested in the daily newspaper.

"Until someone invents another medium that will do a better job of delivery of our advertising wrapped up in a fast reading package of news, pictures, and interesting, educational features, that will get deeper and more dominant home penetration than the daily newspaper, I will continue to recommend...that we earmark at least two-thirds of all of our advertising dollars for newspapers. Newspaper advertising is ACTION ADVERTISING that drives home the impact to get immediate results."

Nothing Sells Like Newspapers

Advertisers in every field share Mr. McNamara's views. They know that building sales in today's competitive market is a job for a giant...a job for newspapers. That's why in 1955, all advertisers invested $3,087,800,000 in newspapers, more than was spent in radio, TV, magazines and outdoor combined. Put the giant to work building sales for you.

All business is local...and so are all newspapers.

County Jail Found

Dead of Sleeping Pills

SALEM, Ill. (UPI)—Authorities said today a 28-year-old man was found dead of an overdose of sleeping tablets Sunday in the Marion County Jail here.

Sheriff William Hoskinson said William Clayton, alias Sylvain Bielak, had been held on a forgery charge. He said Clayton recently lived in Denver, Colo.

Authorities said Clayton had a prescription to take four phenobarbital tablets per day. An inquest will be held tonight.

Boy, 11, Kills Mother, Wounds His Sister, 15

SUTHERLIN, Ore. (UPI)—Oregon authorities prepared today to file a first degree murder charge against 11-year old David Siems, who shot and killed his mother because she threatened to spank him.

David also shot and critically wounded his 15-year old sister, Sandra Anne. She was taken to Roseburg Community Hospital.

Victim of the fatal shooting was Mrs. Jean Nevada Siems, about 50, the mother of six children. The slaying took place Sunday in the living room of the Siems' home two miles west of Sutherlin.

Douglas County District Attorney Robert Stults said he will charge David with first degree murder.

New Regime in Poland Restores Cardinal Wyszyński

WARSAW, Poland (UPI)—Poland's new Communist regime was reported purging its ranks today of men who opposed the new leader, one-time Titoist Wladyslaw Gomulka.

The new leadership Sunday night announced it had freed Stefan Cardinal Wyszyński and restored him to his post as Catholic primate of Poland. The announcement came 25 months to the day after he had been stripped of his religious office and placed under confinement.

Cardinal Wyszyński met freely with his bishops today for the first time since his arrest.

Wyszyński, who returned to Warsaw Sunday night, received a group of bishops this morning at the archbishop's palace.

He was to receive a delegation of Polish Catholics later.

The cardinal told a United Press correspondent he felt unable for the time being to grant newspaper interviews.

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—Freed Polish primate Stefan Cardinal Wyszyński may soon come to Rome to receive the scarlet cardinal's hat from the hands of Pope Pius XII, Vatican sources said today.

News that the new Polish government had released Wyszyński and allowed him to resume his church duties was received with rejoicing in the Vatican.

Father Slain Before Wife, Two Children

HAMMOND, Ind. (UPI)—A father of two children was killed during an attempted holdup early today before his fear-stricken wife, son and daughter.

Police ordered an all-out search to find the slayer, who was described by the victim's wife as soft-spoken and neat.

The victim, Robert O. Martin, picked the killer up outside of Indiana, Ind., Sunday night when returning to his trailer park home with his wife and two children from a Sunday visit in the nearby city.

Mrs. Martin said the man was neat in appearance and spoke politely and softly although he had been drinking.

She told police that Martin tried to drop the hitch-hiker at an intersection, but the man said he would "go as far as you are going." As they pulled up in front of the trailer park where the Martins live, the man drew a gun and demanded Martin's billfold, Mrs. Martin said.

When Martin resisted, the gunman shot him and then ordered Martin's horrified wife and children to drive on. About a mile down the road he ordered Mrs. Martin to stop the car.

Martin's body, propped against the door, fell out when the killer opened it and the family took advantage of the gunman's momentary confusion to flee to safety.

Two Boys Kill Their Father for Threatening Mother

HOHENWALD, Tenn. (UPI)—Two teen-aged boys who killed their father when he threatened their mother because she picked "only 110" pounds of cotton Friday were free in custody of their mother today.

"I don't believe any of the county officers will swear out warrants in the case," Judge D. D. Humphrey Jr. said.

Dexter Kimmons, 15, and James Kimmons, 16, told officers they shot their father, Robert J. Kimmons, Friday night during an argument between the parents.

Sheriff Clint Goodman said the boys told him the argument began when Kimmons slapped his wife, the mother of 12 children, because she failed to pick more than 110 pounds of cotton that day.

When Kimmons threatened their mother with a knife, the boys said, "they got a .32 caliber revolver and shot him. One boy fired one shot, the other two, they said."

Chicago Paper Opposes Re-Election Of Gov. Stratton

CHICAGO (UPI)—The Chicago Sun-Times announced today it was opposed to the re-election of Republican Gov. William G. Stratton and endorsed his Democratic opponent, Richard B. Austin.

In an editorial, the newspaper said that Stratton has been a "good governor" in many respects, "but he has failed utterly in providing moral leadership in the state capital, with results that have been disastrous for the people of Illinois."

Austin, the paper said, built an "enviable record" during his 17 years as an assistant state's attorney in Cook County and has a reputation "as clean as a hound's tooth."

Stating that Austin lacks "wide experience in many state matters," the newspaper said it felt "optimistic" that he would be a good governor.

"A change is needed in the governor's mansion," said the editorial.

The Sun-Times said it did "not hold Governor Stratton directly responsible for the Hodge scandal."

"We do believe, however," the paper said, "that Governor Stratton must be held responsible for the general deterioration of political morality in the conduct of state affairs."

They got a .32 caliber revolver and shot him. One boy fired one shot, the other two, they said.

Kimmons died Saturday.

Some Churches Modifying Divorce, Remarriage Rules By New View of Bible Passage

By LOUIS CASSELS

United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UPI)—A new view of a long-disputed Bible passage is leading some Protestant churches to modify their rules on divorce and remarriage.

The trend is away from rigid church laws and toward a policy of treating each individual case as a problem for pastoral counseling.

Two Lutheran groups—the United Lutheran Church and the American Lutheran Church—recently have liberalized their rules to reflect the new policy.

Southern Presbyterians took a step in the same direction by giving local church committees power to decide eligibility for remarriage.

There is vigorous debate on the question in the Methodist and Episcopal churches and several other denominations.

Spirit of Gospel

Churchmen who favor the new policy insist that it does not involve any watering-down of the Christian teaching that marriage is a lifelong union and that divorce is contrary to God's law.

They say it is simply a matter of applying the spirit of the whole Christian gospel, rather than the letter of a particular Bible passage, to the human tragedy of a broken marriage.

The opposite point of view—held by many Protestants as well as Roman Catholics—was stated recently by Pope Pius XII. He said Jesus instituted clear and specific "laws of marriage" which the church "has no right to change."

The doctrinal dispute centers around Jesus' answer to the Pharisees who asked his attitude toward divorce. The answer, recorded in Matthew 19:9 of the King James version of the Bible, was: "Whosoever shall put away his wife, except it be for fornication, and shall marry another, committeth adultery: and whoso marrieth her which is put away doth commit adultery."

Question of Interpretation

On the basis of this passage, many Protestant churches condone divorce if a mate has been unfaithful, and permit remarriage in the church of the innocent party to a divorce granted on grounds of adultery.

Modern Biblical scholars, however, have challenged the authenticity of the phrase "except it be for fornication." They point out that the Gospels of Mark, Luke and John record Jesus' answer without the disputed phrase.

They also say it is inconceivable that Jesus would deliver a fundamental moral teaching about the indissolubility of marriage and then provide a loophole.

Strict application of Jesus' words as recorded by Mark, Luke and John would mean that a church could never approve of divorce and remarriage under any circumstances.

This is the stand which the Catholic church has taken. The absolute Catholic ban on divorce applies only to marriages which the church views as having been "valid" in the first place. A Catholic who marries outside the church is regarded as having never been truly married and a civil divorce terminating such a marriage is no bar to a subsequent church marriage.

Select Cast for Junior Class Play, 'We Shooked the Family Tree,' Nov. 16

Miss Eleanor Etherton, sponsor of the HTHS Thespians, has recently announced the cast for this year's Junior play, "We Shooked The Family Tree," to be presented in Bonnell Gym, Nov. 16.

The play cast will consist of 12 members, seven girls and five boys. The characters of the play are Hildergarde, played by Jane Capel, a slim blond girl of 16 or 17 with a knack for dramatics, and a vivid imagination which often gets her in trouble.

Sally, played by Karen Skaggs, is Hildergarde's younger sister and tends to imitate Hildergarde in her actions and gestures. She is also very loyal to Hildergarde.

Bob, played by Paul Miller, and Jimmy, played by Tom Wilkison, are Hildergarde's younger brothers. Bob is a year or so younger than Hildergarde and loves to fish and tease her. Jimmy is in his early teens, a gadget inventor, and likes to tag along with Bob.

When Bob is in mischief, it's a sure bet that Jimmy is in cahoots with him.

Group of 70 Scientists Disagree With President on H-Bomb Tests

CHICAGO — A group of 70 nuclear scientists Sunday night disagreed with President Eisenhower's declaration that only the largest H-bomb blasts can be detected.

The President, in a 7,000-word "white paper" on nuclear tests, said Tuesday a suspension of such testing could not be enforced because the "very large" blasts probably would be the only ones detected if one nation violated the agreement.

The members of the organization called "The Atomic Scientists of Chicago," however, said the explosion of any H-bomb equal to 1 million tons of TNT or more can be detected by its world-wide effects.

Meet With Newsmen

"Much information can be obtained from remote monitoring stations about the size, composition, efficiency and design of the bomb exploded," they said. "The United States, U. S. S. R., Great Britain, Japan and other countries already possess such monitoring equipment."

The scientists, most of them physicists, organized their unit in 1946 and now compose the local chapter of the American Federation of Scientists.

Three representatives of the group met with newsmen in a University of Chicago building just a stone's throw from the Stagg Field stands where the first successful atomic chain reaction took place.

The spokesmen were David Ingalls, senior physicist at Argonne National Laboratory; William Davidson, another Argonne physicist, and Leopold Haimson, a University of Chicago history professor who commented on diplomatic aspects of the proposed H-bomb moratorium.

They issued a statement by Dr. David L. Hill, a Los Alamos, N. M., physicist, who said criticism of Adlai E. Stevenson's proposal to ban H-bomb tests was "political dust."

"I have studied these criticisms," he said, "and believe they are all political dust to be thrown into the eyes of the voters between now and Nov. 6."

"A ban on the testing of large nuclear weapons, initiated by the United States and carried out in concert with all other nations, appears desirable from every point of view," he added.

The Chicago scientists said a halt in hydrogen bomb tests would be an important step toward peace on a sound basis. They said the problem "transcends political partisanship."

Wrong Flag is Raised at Olympic Village

MELBOURNE (UPI) — The Olympic Village opening ceremony today almost broke out into a riot when the organizers raised a Chinese Communist flag instead of the Nationalist one.

"You have made a very bad mistake," Gun Sun-hoh, chief of the Chinese Nationalist mission, shouted furiously at Olympic Organizing Committee Chairman Alfred Kent Hughes.

"If Nationalist China were not such good friends with Australia we would walk out right now," the Chinese official said.

It all happened during the flag-raising ceremony when an Australian soldier unfurled the wrong flag.

The assembled crowd of 1,000 persons could easily hear the shouting of the Chinese and tried to get out of the way as Gun plunged into the crowd in an attempt to tear down the Communist flag. The soldier quickly struck the flag down and raised the Nationalist one instead to loud applause from the people.

The Olympic committee was stunned by this first international "incident." When he recovered speech, Kent Hughes admitted "This is very bad error."

"I suppose I'll have to assume responsibility, but it's really the fault of the army which has charge of this section of the ceremony."

Lions Remain Only Unbeaten Pro Grid Team

By United Press

The Detroit Lions are trying to become the first National Football League team to leap from last to first and don't bet too much they won't pull the trick.

Detroit, which finished last in the Western Division in 1955, cleared one of its stiffest hurdles Sunday and emerged as the pro circuit's only perfect record team by whipping the Rams at Los Angeles, 16-7. The victory kept the Lions (5-0) a game ahead of the Chicago Bears (4-1) who overpowered the San Francisco Forty-Niners, 38-21.

The Eastern race tightened as the New York Giants moved into a first-place tie with the Chicago Cardinals (both 4-1). The Giants defeated the Philadelphia Eagles, 20-3, while the Washington Redskins upset the Cardinals, 17-14. It was the Cardinals' first loss after sweeping four games.

Cleveland Hopes Fade

The Pittsburgh Steelers virtually ended Cleveland's faint hope of keeping the Eastern title by rallying to down the Browns, 24-16. Both the Browns and the Rams, defending Western champions, are in last place with 1-4 records with only seven games to play.

Lenny Moore, Baltimore's candidate for rookie-of-the-year honors, made touchdown runs of 72 and 79 yards to lead the Colts to a 28-21 triumph over the Green Bay Packers in the other game.

NCAA Approves 10 Bowl Games

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — The National Collegiate Athletic Association today stamped its approval on the Sugar Bowl, with its forced segregation law, and nine other bowls.

Executive Director Walter Byers explained earlier that the forced segregation in Louisiana would have no bearing on NCAA approval, since there was nothing in the NCAA by-laws concerning segregation.

Georgia Tech caught up with Tulane's "upset kids," 40-0; Johnny Major's three touchdown tosses helped Tennessee whip Maryland, 34-7; Wyoming rallied for a 27-15 victory over Kansas State; Iowa edged Purdue, 21-20, when the Boilermakers' Len Dawson missed his third conversion, and Princeton trampled Cornell, 32-21.

SIDELINE—Fred Bednarz kicks off for Texas with the side of his foot, a carry over from soccer experience as a youngster in Poland. The ball sails far, so high that it has taken 4.5 seconds to reach the receiver.

SMOTHERING DEFENSE—Quarterback Ted Marchibroda of the Steelers was smothered by burly Philadelphia linemen after fumbling at Forbes Field in Pittsburgh. Tom Scott, Eagles' end, on his feet, was set to pounce on the ball.
